Activity Details:

The Department of Homoeopathic Repertory and Case Taking (PG), Parul Institute of Homoeopathy and Research, Parul University, organized an Expert Lecture for PG Scholars on 26th August 2025 at the Seminar Hall (J. K. Patel Memorial Hall, PIHR). The session began at 10:00 AM and continued till 12:00 Noon. The aim of this expert lecture was to enrich the knowledge of postgraduate scholars by integrating academic learning with clinical perspectives in Homoeopathy, with a special emphasis on the role of Repertory in dermatological cases.

The program commenced with the Gathering and Welcome at 10:00 AM, led by the Anchor.

At 10:10 AM, Dr. Disha Mitra delivered a brief introduction about the speaker and the event. She highlighted the objectives of the lecture, the significance of repertory in clinical practice, and the academic contributions of the invited speaker. This introduction gave the audience an overview of the purpose of the session and created a sense of anticipation among the participants.

The speech on the occasion was delivered by Dr. Ankur Desai Sir, Principal of PIHR, at 10:15 AM. He emphasized the importance of expert lectures in bridging the gap between theory and clinical application. He also encouraged postgraduate scholars to actively participate in such academic initiatives, which enhance their learning and broaden their perspectives in homoeopathic practice.

At 10:20 AM, the felicitation of the speaker took place. Dr. Ankur Desai Sir, along with Dr. Disha Mitra, Dr. Devang Modha expressed gratitude towards the speaker for sparing his valuable time and sharing his expertise with the students and faculty. The felicitation marked a gesture of respect and appreciation for the speaker's contribution to the academic event.

The core session began at 10:25 AM, when Dr. Mahavrat S Patel, the distinguished speaker, delivered his expert lecture on "Integrating Repertory in Exploring the Scope of Homoeopathy for Dermatological Cases." Dr. Patel shared his vast clinical experience and highlighted how repertory serves as a vital tool in the accurate selection of remedies for skin disorders. He emphasized the practical integration of Repertory with Materia Medica and case-taking methods, showcasing examples from dermatological practice. The session was highly interactive, with the speaker engaging participants through case discussions, clinical tips, and practical applications.

Dr. Patel also discussed the scope of homoeopathy in various dermatological conditions, addressing challenges and strategies for effective case management. The lecture inspired postgraduate scholars to refine their reportorial skills and to approach dermatological cases with greater confidence.

At 11:55 AM, the session concluded with the Vote of Thanks delivered by Dr. Devang Modha. He expressed heartfelt gratitude to the University management, Principal Sir, faculty members, the speaker, and all participants for making the event successful. The program formally ended with the National Anthem at 12:00 Noon, instilling a sense of unity and respect.

Glimpses of activity:

Outcome:

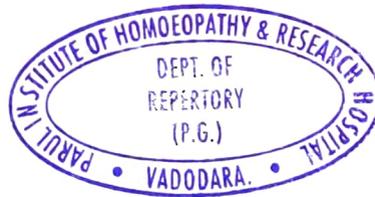

By the conclusion of this expert lecture, participants will be able to appreciate the significance of Repertory in the analysis and management of dermatological cases. They will acquire the competence to integrate Repertory with Materia Medica for precise remedy selection, thereby strengthening their clinical decision-making skills. Furthermore, they will gain a deeper understanding of the scope and applicability of Homoeopathy in the field of dermatology, enabling them to approach skin disorders with greater confidence and clarity.
